Contents Overview

The game is a physics-based platformer, and similar to Mario Bros. In LittleBigPlanet, players can create their own levels and share them with other players via the PSN network. The player can play, create and share levels, with some game elements being exclusive to some modes. Unlike past iterations of the series, there are no characters on screen, nor are there sprites of the player's own, or the characters in their levels. LittleBigPlanet has 100 levels, with five categories: Beach, Battle, Forest, Dome and Sky. Each of these categories is broken up into three difficulty levels, labelled as easy, medium, and hard. LittleBigPlanet is set on a flat world, and the player's only input is by pressing buttons on the control pad. The player can create any kind of level, but the game automatically creates some structures for the player to jump on, from grass to wooden fences. In the beginning of the game, there is a selection of backdrops that the player can use to set the level's background, including a beach, swamp and an empty landscape. The player can create levels, and share them on the PSN. The player can also play the levels created by other players. These levels are generated by the game automatically, and the player does not need to do anything special to play them. The player can also go to the game's 'High Scores' section to see if there are other people online who share their level, and play it.
